THE HOLOCAUST

Selected Documents in Eighteen Volumes

John Mendelsohn and Donald S. Detwiler, Editors

Originally published: New York: Garland Publishing, Inc., 1982

Each volume is composed of facsimiles of essential records of the Holocaust, in most of its aspects from 1933 to 1945, arranged both topically and chronologically. The set contains over 330 documents in over 5,200 pages.

The documents were carefully chosen from the thousands preserved at the U.S. National Archives, by the late Dr. John Mendelsohn, a supervisory archivist of the U.S. National Archives and Records Service, who was the author of numerous finding aids and guides to captured German documents and Holocaust records. Dr. Donald S. Detwiler, an internationally recognized authority on the history of World War II and its documentation and Professor Emeritus, Southern Illinois University, is the Advisory Editor. Each volume contains an Introduction by Dr. Mendelsohn or another distinguished authority. The introductions offer historical perspective on the documents as well as general information about the topic. Each volume contains a detailed table of contents listing each document and providing its source.

Selected Titles

T. Baty and J.H. Morgan War Its Conduct and Legal Results

Originally published: London: John Murray, 1915. xxviii, [ii], 578 pp.

The authors argue that the First World War effectively ended the existing system of international law, a system that was already in decline due to the growing economic and political interdependence of states.

Samuel B. Crandall Treaties, Their Making and Enforcement

Originally published: Washington, D.C.: John Byrne & Co., 1916. xxxii, 663 pp.

Reprint of the 2nd edition, preferable because it is a substantially expanded work. This important treatise analyzes agency and the right of ratification, the essentials of validity, the reality of consent and the operation of treaties from the date they take effect to their interpretation and termination. It explores treaty-making in the United States in great depth, including treaties made before and during the Articles of Confederation era, and discusses treaty-making in Germany, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland and other countries.

Elbert J. Benton International Law and Diplomacy of the Spanish-American War

Originally published: Baltimore: The Johns Hopkins Press, 1908. 300 pp.

An exploration of Spanish-American relations prior to and during the war. This work is critical, but it leans heavily toward a pro-American point of view. He concludes, for instance, that American military and diplomatic objectives were achieved to varying degrees, that at the end of the conflict Cuba was granted complete sovereignty, and that the treaty of peace was fulfilled.

Frances Gardiner Davenport, Editor European Treaties Bearing on the History of the United States and Its Dependencies

Originally published: Washington, D.C.: Published by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, 1917-1937. 4 vols. vi, 388; vi, 386; vi, 270; viii, 222 pp. Vol. I: to 1648, Vol. II: 1650-1697, Vol. III: 1698-1715, Volume IV: 1716-1815.

This valuable compilation contains treaties and papal bulls dealing with colonial matters. Although they are fundamental documents for the study of early American history, they are not widely available in print form. Contains 203 treaties with historical introductions and extensive bibliographical notes. Each volume contains a thorough index.

D. W. Bowett Self-Defense in International Law

Originally published: New York: Praeger, [1958]. xv, 294 pp.

Bowett observes that the use or threat of force by any state can be a delict, an approved sanction, or a measure taken in self-defense. He examines the evolution of the doctrine in the 19th and early 20th centuries, with the assumption of the existence of a state's unlimited right to go to war.

Edward A. Harriman The Constitution at the Cross Roads A Study of the Legal Aspects of the League of Nations, The Permanent Organization of Labor and the Permanent Court of International Justice

Originally published: New York: George H. Doran Company, [1925]. xv, 274 pp.

Harriman offers a thorough, organized treatment of the extent of the legal consequences in which the Constitution of the United States may be affected by the Treaty of Versailles and the United States' resulting membership in the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Thomas Erskine Holland The Laws of War on Land (Written and Unwritten)

Originally published: Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1908. viii, 150 pp.

Holland [1835–1926] analyzed the proceedings of the international conventions held at St. Petersburg in 1868, Geneva in 1906 and the Hague in 1899 and 1907. He found that they provided enough common material to create a code of land warfare, so he synthesized the texts of these conventions into a code containing 140 numbered articles divided into five sections. Each is annotated with references to the conventions. A standard authority during the First World War. Still cited today, it is also a primary source for the study of the law of land warfare from 1868 to the mid-20th century.

Manley O. Hudson International Tribunals Past and Future

Originally published: Washington: Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and Brookings Institution, 1944. xii, 285 pp.

An authoritative survey of significant international courts and tribunals over the last 150 years, beginning with a brief history from the American-British Treaty of 1794 to the time of publication. The work goes on to offer a constructive analysis of the place of tribunals in problems of world affairs, with an emphasis on their organization, operation, function as well as a critical examination of the merits and defects.

Hans Kelsen Peace Through Law

Originally published: Chapel Hill: The University of North Carolina Press, 1944. xii, 155 pp.

Kelsen departs from his theories on pure law and here proposes a formula for international peace.

Possibly the most influential jurist of the twentieth century, HANS KELSEN [1881-1973] was the author of more than forty books on law and legal philosophy. Active as a teacher in Europe and the United States, he was Dean of the Law Faculty of the University of Vienna and taught at the universities of Cologne and Prague, the Institute of International Studies in Geneva, Harvard, Wellesley, the University of California at Berkeley, and the Naval War College.

Frederick J. Jacobsen Laws of the Sea With Reference to Maritime Commerce, During Peace and War [Translated] from the German by William Frick

Originally published: Baltimore: Edward J. Coale, 1818. xxxv, 636 pp.

Reprint of the 1818, first English-language edition. Originally published in Altona (Hamburg) in 1815, J.G. Marvin spoke highly of this work in his Legal Bibliography (1847), noting that few have equaled his wide range of research and depth of learning (418-419). As late as 1921, G.L. Canfield, writing in the Michigan Law Review, called this work "one of the pleasures of the legal bibliophile" that "remain[s] essential today to a practitioner's library (19:580-582).

Walter Alison Phillips
The Confederation of Europe
A Study of the European Alliance, 1813-1823 as an Experiment in the International Organization of Peace

Originally published: London: Longmans, Green and Co., 1920. xviii, 320 pp.

Phillips [1864–1950] believed that World War I, though greater in scale, was similar to earlier European conflicts. Hopeful that the newly formed League of Nations could learn a useful lesson from the past, he offers an account of its most successful forerunner, the European alliance of 1813-1823, which was formed at the end of the Napoleonic Wars. Founded in 1983, The Lawbook Exchange began publishing reprints of legal classics in 1991, and introduced original titles in 2003. We currently serve thousands of individuals and institutions worldwide.

Although we have been publishing new original titles since 2003, we have issued them under the same imprint as our reprint editions: LAWBOOK EXCHANGE, LTD. In 2013 we divided our publication division into two units.

Our imprint, TALBOT PUBLISHING, presents new monographs of current scholarship in law and legal history.

LAWBOOK EXCHANGE REPRINTS is a series of more than 1,000 classic texts, many with new introductions, indexes and other new material by leading scholars. This series also includes recent monographs for which we have obtained copyright, thus they are not available elsewhere. Most of those are included here. Our reprints feature unabridged, carefully reproduced texts, acid-free paper and attractive, high-quality bindings.
